

Parent Feedback

Your task this week for home learning is to present to your parents, your research findings from your “What is..?” question. Your parent’s task is to provide constructive and detailed feedback on the following questions. This conversation may take place in your mother tongue:

Did they successfully answer their question?

Arabella succinctly defined Greek mythology. With some prompting, she was able to tell me more details about the gods/goddesses and the purpose of the mythology.

Did they express their ideas clearly, understandably and audibly?

Yes, she was very clear and well-spoken.

Did they use technical and topic-related vocabulary?

Yes, Arabella has clearly done some research and has some good catch phrases about mythology (“body of myths”). She could use more specifics about the various gods/goddesses and what they represent.

Did they convince you that they were an expert?

She is on her way - after prompting, she was able to tell me some details, but more are probably needed.

Did they respond successfully to any questions you had?

Yes, she was able to respond to my questions (though could use a little more background, as I said before), even the ones that were off the “what” topic. :)

What do you now know that you didn’t know before?

Arabella did tell me some interesting facts - Athena gave the Greeks to olive, for example.
